Assistant Fire Chief
Caldwell Fire Department

Dear Mr. Wendelsdorf:

I have received your letter concerning the use of donated structures for fire training purposes. During a recent telephone conversation, you asked how Idaho's environmental statutes and regulations apply to the activity.

It is Division of Environmental Quality's (DEQ) interpretation that a building that is to be used for fire training purposes does not meet the definition of a solid waste; and therefore, may not be a hazardous waste. Since the building still has a legitimate use, the building will not meet the specific definition of discarded or abandoned, as stated in IDAPA § 16.01.05005 (40 CFR § 261.2).

After the practice burn, however, the ash and residue will meet the specific 40 CFR § 262.2 definition of abandoned. Therefore, a hazardous waste determination must be performed on the ash and residue. IDAPA § 16.01.05006 (40 CFR § 262.11) states the generator may perform the determination by process knowledge or laboratory analysis.

Open outdoor fires used by qualified personnel to train firefighters in the methods of fire suppression and fire fighting techniques are specifically exempted from air quality permitting requirements (IDAPA § 16.01.01153) provided the fires do not burn any of the following:

- 1) Garbage
- 2) Dead animals or parts thereof
- 3) Tires or other rubber materials or products
- 4) Pathogenic wastes
- 5) Hazardous waste

Additionally, training fires may not be allowed to smolder after the training session has been terminated.

The suppression of training fires should be conducted to prevent contamination of surface water with run off from water used to fight the fire.

If you have any question, please call me at 334-5898.
